

Migration patterns in Finland

Population born abroad

Immigration to Finland is concentrated in the southernmost region of the country. Although some might hypothesize that this can be explained by differences in population density, evaluating the population born abroad on a logarithmic scale and as a percent of the total population reveals that the majority of immigrants are clustered near the capitol region.

Per 10,000 people

Percent of population born abroad

Percent

